Dr. Swati Barnabas at perfect place for 'book'-cation with travel companions on 21st June 2023 in Turkey's ancient wonder : Library of Celsus , Ephesus !

The Library of Celsus, located in ancient Ephesus, was a grand Roman building constructed in the 2nd century AD. It served as a repository for precious manuscripts and housed over 12,000 scrolls. The magnificent facade showcased statues of wisdom and knowledge. It stood as a symbol of intellectual and cultural significance in the ancient world. The Library of Celsus was built in memory of Tiberius Julius Celsus Polemaeanus, a prominent Roman senator and consul from Ephesus. The library was commissioned by his son, Gaius Julius Aquila, as a tribute to his father's memory and to showcase the family's wealth and influence.
